VOL. XXVI, NO. 117 GAINESVILLE, FLORIDA, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1909 TEN CENTS A WEEK

SECOND DAY OF TRIAL KELLEY AND DAVIDSON

State Rested at Noon Tuesday---Kelley Creates Mild Sensation During Examination of Witness.

(By Jesse E. Burtz.)

PALATKA, June 22.—The second day of the Kelley-Davidson murder trial was full of interest today. The State rested at noon, after examining fourteen witnesses.

The defense began its rebuttal evidence at the opening of the afternoon session, two witnesses being examined, when court adjourned until Wednesday morning.

Kelley, one of the defendants, created a mild sensation during the testimony of one of the State's witnesses this morning, when the prisoner rose and said to the witness: "You lie like a dog." Kelley was quickly pulled back into his chair and commanded to keep quiet, when order was restored.

It will probably be the latter part of the week before the case is submitted to the jury.

Monday's Proceedings.

PALATKA, June 22.—The famous case of the State of Florida vs. W. M. Davidson and James Kelley, charged with the murder of Night Watchman W. C. Sellars at the shops of the Atlantic Coast Line in High Springs about three years ago, and for which a change of venue from Alachua to Putnam county was granted, was begun here Monday, being a special term, Judge J. T. Wills, of the Eighth Judicial Circuit, presiding, with State Attorney Rivers, the regular court officials of Putnam county, Clerk S. H. Wienges, Sheriff Perry G. Ramsey, and other court officials of Alachua county in attendance.

The defendants arrived from Gainesville Sunday, and were taken to the Putnam county jail, where they remained until this morning, being brought into court a few moments prior to the opening of the tribunal at 9:30 o'clock. The prisoners seemed cheerful, and were refreshed after a good night's rest.

The court was called to order promptly at 9:30. The little court room proved inadequate to accommodate the throng of witnesses, spectators, etc., who had gathered from almost every section of this State and Georgia, many of the witnesses for the prosecution being summoned from the latter State. There are twenty witnesses for the State, and twenty-five for the defense, all of whom with two or three exceptions responded to their names as the roll was called.

This case is one of State-wide reputation, and probably the most important murder case which has transpired in Alachua county for many years. There is arrayed on both sides some of the best legal talent in the State. State Attorney J. M. Rivers is assisted by Col. Thos. Palmer of Tampa, and Col. J. N. Blackwell of this city, while the defendants have employed as counsel Judge Syd L. Carter of Gainesville, Judge Robt. W. Davis of Tampa, Col. J. N. Stripling of Jacksonville and Col. E. Noble Calhoun of Palatka.

Upon the opening of the court Clerk Henry Hutchinson called the roll of the regular and special venires, comprising sixty-two talismen from the body of the county. The regular venire was first called. Jurors I. C. Canova, Chas. Burt and John Motes, however, were excused by request and the clerk was instructed to issue a venire of three from the body of the county to complete the regular panel. Those summoned were J. B. Minton, W. H. Canova and T. E. Hudson, which completed the panel, and this panel was accepted by the State and tendered.

J. B. Minton was excused by the defense, when Sheriff R. Lee Kennerly was instructed to call the first twenty from the special venire. On this list J. A. Frederick, A. J. Padgett, G. W. Kellum, W. A. Walton and T. J. Barnett were excused for various reasons, when the remainder of the special venire were called, and A. L. Baughman was excused by request. W. H. Minton was then called to complete the regular panel, and was qualified, again making a full panel.

George Weatherby was excused by the State, and Leo Jacobson was called, but challenged by the State. J. C. McCoy was then called, and also peremptorily challenged by the State, when Louis Kalbfield took his place in the box. He was qualified, which again completed the panel, but Julius P. Neubeck was challenged by the defense, and P. J. Becks was called. Mr. Becks, after a rigid examination, qualified, which completed the panel satisfactory to both sides.

Upon completion of the panel the special veniremen were excused from further attendance upon the court.

The jury as empanelled is said to be as an aggregation one of the best, most intelligent and most conservative which ever filled a jury box in this county. They are men of high standing and integrity, and are as follows:

Thomas Murray, dealer in meats; John Griffin, hardware dealer; M. M. Vickers, journalist; John D. Points, plumber; James A. Bair, nurseryman; A. M. Haughteon, merchant; T. R. Livingston, baker; T. E. Hudson, mechanic; W. H. Cannon, farmer; W. H. Minton, merchant; Louis Kalbfield, hotel proprietor; P. J. Becks, contractor.

After the jury had been duly sworn, the defendants were commanded to rise, when the indictment was read. Having been previously arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty, this formality was dispensed with.

The roll of witnesses for the State and defense was called, the witnesses placed under the rule, W. R. Johnson was sworn in as bailiff to take charge of the jury, and court adjourned at 11:40 until 2 o'clock p. m.

Afternoon Session.

Court convened at 2 o'clock p. m. All officers in their respective places.

The first witness called was J. M. Smith. Resides in Waycross, Ga., but resided in High Springs in August, 1906. Knows both defendants, also knew W. C. Sellars. Was present when Sellars was shot in High Springs; was standing within few feet of Sellars when he was shot; was equally near Davidson. Witness saw Davidson and Sellars early the night of the killing. Sellars was night watchman at the A. C. L. shops. Witness stated that at the time of the killing both he and Sellars were armed, Sellars carrying a Winchester which witness had loaned him. He and Sellars were seated on steps of freight depot when he observed two men approaching. Larger man looked to be about 6 feet tall, heavy built. He identified this man as Kelley. Witness stated it was then that he and Sellars went into the depot and were examining their guns when Sellars called his attention to two men at a window. He saw them as they disappeared; one of them had something which appeared to be a gun.

Witness stated that he and Sellars then went to Davidson's restaurant and called him (Davidson). Davidson responded, and the trio walked back to the station platform. He told Davidson about the strange movements of two men about the place. Davidson suggested that probably someone was trying to rob the depot, and suggested that he (witness) and Sellars go into the office and try to catch them. About that time Davidson raised his hand, when two guns were fired, and Sellars fell, with six buckshot wounds in his side. Witness recognized one of the men as the one described already, the other a small man, wearing a beard. After the shooting at the depot two more shots were fired, which appeared to come from the direction of Davidson's restaurant. The two men ran in a northerly direction after the first two shots were fired.

Witness stated that there had been breaking and stealing from the cars of the railroad at High Springs.

On cross-examination witness stated that he remained in High Springs about one month after Sellars' death and that he was a witness before the coroner's jury; was employed at the time by the Southern Weighing and Inspecting Bureau and the Coast Line jointly; understood that rewards were offered for the arrest and conviction of guilty party or parties, and had been active in an endeavor to secure information. Witness stated he would not swear the large man he saw was Kelley, but that he resembled Kelley as to size, movements, etc.

Witness was asked if his testimony before the coroner's jury was taken down in writing, to which he replied that it was.

"Where is that testimony now?" asked Attorney Stripling.

"I do not know," was the reply.

"Did you not take the copy of this testimony out of the vault in the court house in Gainesville?"

"I did not."

"Do you know whether anyone else did take that copy or not?"

"I do not; I am unable to tell where the copy is, for I do not know."

"Did you testify in the habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Wills?"

"I did."

"Did the man who stood between the cars have a gun?"

"Not that I know of. He was standing behind a flat car, and I could see only from his waist up."

Witness stated that he left High Springs because he was afraid of the "mob" there.

Witness described position of himself, Davidson and Sellars at the time of the shooting, using himself and Attorneys Rivers and Palmer as the subjects.

J. H. Felds was next sworn. Resides in Sanford; was in High Springs on night Sellars was killed, in August, 1906; was yard foreman for the railroad, and Kelley held a similar position in the High Springs yards at that time. Kelley was out of town in the early evening, and he was "subbing" for him, but Kelley relieved him after supper.

Witness stated that when he was relieved he and Peter Burkhart met Davidson, when Davidson called their attention to a man, saying: "See that man? (referring to Sellars). He is from Tampa. He is a dirty ——— and has come up here to do some

OAK HALLS SHUT OUT THE VISITORS YESTERDAY

Good Work Done By Both Teams in Tuesday's Game Last of Series to Be Played Today.

Tuesday's ball game was somewhat better than the exhibition of Monday, and the shut out by the home boys was what should have been done on the day preceding. Although both sides made errors, none of them were costly to the teams.

The crowd yesterday was nothing in comparison with what it should have been, and the article of ball the boys are handing us should be encouraged from every standpoint. A large attendance and plenty of "rooting" is just what Manager Davis says he wants, and must have, to make the club the success we all want it to be. All players have their off-day, but we want to encourage the bunch, for they will soon be meeting real fast company in the South Florida teams, and judging from the games being made he latter are playing good ball.

The Cordele team put up a good game of ball yesterday but luck was against them, and while at times it looked rather squally for the home boys the visitors failed to get anything to their credit. Their hitting was good, having secured seven hits to the Oak Halls' five.

Tillman's work for the visitors was good, he having struck out nine men, while Spottswood only has five to his credit.

The Oak Halls started their run-getting in the first half of the second. Watson was up first, and whiffed; Hendricks got his and went to first; Denton fanned; Hendricks stole second; Spottswood hit a beauty to center, bringing in Hendricks, and himself going to second. Hartsfield got caught going to first on a hot grounder to second, and retired the side. One run.

Nothing more was doing in the line or runs until they reached the sixth inning, the Oak Halls again sending four men across the home plate—Graham, Watson, Hendricks and Denton.

The score by innings:

Oak Halls	0	1	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	5	5	4

Base on balls—Tillman 2.

Wild pitches—Tillman 2, Spottswood 1.

Two-base hits—Watson 1.

Struck out—Spottswood 5, Tillman 9.

The last of the series will be played this afternoon at the ball lot. Let all attend and encourage the boys.

Notes.

"Babe" Denton found another that was too hot for him yesterday. Straighten up and hold them, old boy, in the future.

"Pat" Graham says it's strenuous work, but he likes it when they get the game.

Hartsfield behind the bat is quick, and will prove a valuable man to the home team.

"Pop" Watson lacked only a few inches of popping one over the right-field fence yesterday. Get those shoes in your next effort, "Watty."

Hendricks is right there anywhere you place him, and he plays good ball at all times. He made good on all of his chances yesterday.

"Fatty" Bullock says "what's the use" this hot weather, when you have it your own way; but if necessary he can "dose 'em."

The visitors play good ball and may take the game today in a walk, so be on hand to do your share of "rooting."

Drivers of Automobiles Must Obey the Ordinance

W. G. Richardson, who is acting marshal during the absence of B. T. Arnow, stated to the reporter on Tuesday that numerous complaints were being lodged against the drivers of automobiles in this city.

On one occasion Tuesday a lady registered three complaints against different machines and their drivers, and the marshal conferred with the mayor in reference to speed of the machines and just what the ordinance provided.

Now that the ladies have taken some hand in the matter, it is very probable that something will be done to confine the autos to the speed limit in and about the city.

Marshal Richardson stated that he would see every one of the drivers reported personally and ask them to pay some attention to the law, and also in regard to frightening horses, which requires that they slow up and shut down the machines, if necessary, while a horse is passing, and unless something is done by them to comply, arrests will follow.

The Atlantic Coast Line Wants West Main Street

The City Council held a special meeting Monday night for the purpose of receiving the proposed plans from the A. C. L. Railway Company to erect a shed over West Main street for a distance of about four hundred feet.

There was much discussion, and for a while it looked as if the request of the company was going to be granted, regardless of what the citizens might say, but after a lengthy address by Cols. B. A. Thrasher and R. E. Davis, the latter speaking only for the city's interest, the matter was referred to the ordinance committee and the city attorney to draw up a special ordinance covering the same.

Col. Thrasher appeared in behalf of a number of citizens who had petitioned the council to refuse the request and spoke at length as to what the railroad company had asked for and what they stated they would give, but it was insufficient, and if granted at all should be clothed with all proper safeguards.

After such a strong protest by the citizens it is highly probable that the request will be denied altogether, and some other plan will have to be submitted for the better care of the traveling public than to think of taking up half of the street for their own benefit, without so much as even paying for the paving.

This matter will come up at the next regular meeting of the city dads in July, and as the citizens have just commenced to learn something of what the railroad wants, the meeting will very probably be largely attended.

GOOD OPPORTUNITY TO VISIT DENVER

EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION TO MEET AT DENVER.

Cheap Railroad Rates from Florida for One of the Most Notable Gatherings of the Year.

The forty-seventh annual convention of the National Educational Association of the United States will be held in Denver, Colo., July 3-9, 1909.

Of all the meetings of this great body of educators the one to be held at Denver this year will be the most interesting. The program is exceptionally fine.

Denver is preparing to entertain the convention most royally, and the summer vacation can be most pleasantly spent in this attractive city and its vicinity.

The Brown Palace Hotel (European plan) will be executive headquarters. This hotel has also been selected as headquarters for the Florida delegation. Rooms without bath, $2 per day; with bath, $2.50 to $3.50 per day. At other hotels and boarding-houses, rates range from 50 cents to $3 per day.

Railroad Rates.

The following are the rates granted for the round trip from these points, and correspondingly low rates are given from all other points within the State:

Jacksonville	$52.67
Tallahassee	48.90
Daytona	59.25
DeFuniak Springs	48.90
Tampa	59.10

The Lion's Rush.

The wisest and most experienced can never tell what a lion will do. Lion hunting, to my mind, has a charm all its own. Nothing compares with it, and no driving of ravines or swamps or catching the great cat at his kill is comparable to the joy and steady excitement of tracking him down. He chooses the ground. You follow him into it. You pit yourself against him. Crouching flat against the yellow earth, perhaps covered only by a few inches of grass, he is almost unbelievably hard to see. His rush and spring from a few yards distance is the fastest thing in the world. No animal can escape it, much less clumsy, slow footed man. He has a chance to pay off on man, the universal lord and master, the wrongs of the animal world, and here in East Africa the lion's revengeful toll taken on human life and limb mounts high.—Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford in World's Work.

The Rubber Tree.

The "india rubber" plant—Ficus elasticus—is a great tree in the tropical countries in which it flourishes, often reaching as much as a hundred feet high. Imposing, indeed, it looks in such conditions, with a vast leafy crown extending over forty or fifty feet outward on each side of the massive trunk and with immense buttressing roots twisting and winding along above the ground in such a way as to lead the natives of India and Ceylon to call it the "snake tree." Sometimes these roots grow up into the trees and make the tree look like the banyan, to which, it may be mentioned, it is botanically related.

The Usual Place.

"Can you swim, Corporal Brown?" asked an elderly major.

"Yes, sir."

"You can? Where on earth did you learn?"

THE CUCKOO.

Curious Superstitions That Are Connected With the Bird.

There is a popular belief that whatever one is doing when first one hears the cuckoo that will be what one will most frequently do during the year.

In many parts of Scotland and in the northern counties of England people turn their money in their pockets on hearing the first call of the cuckoo, as this, they say, insures a lucky year. In the counties bordering in Wales not only do they do this, but they also have a wish at the same time, this wish being kept secret, of course. To have a gold coin in one's pocket when the cuckoo's call is first heard insures good luck for the rest of the year. The German peasants declare that after St. John's day the bird changes into a sparrow hawk.

The Danes have a curious legend regarding this bird. When the village girls hear its first call they kiss their hands and repeat, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be married?" As many times as the bird calls "cuckoo" in answer, so many years will the maiden have to wait. The old folk, bent and bowed with rheumatism and age, ask instead, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be released from this world's cares?" and the answer comes in the same way. So occupied is the poor bird in answering these questions, say the Danes, that she never has time to build her nest, so is forced to lay her eggs in the nest of another bird.—Planet.

Sore Nipples.

Any mother who has had experience with this distressing ailment will be pleased to know that a cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe it off with a soft cloth before allowing the babe to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with best results. For sale by all druggists.

When Real Knowledge Comes.

"Mamma," asked a little girl, "how long did you know papa before you married him?"

"My dear," replied the mother, "I was acquainted with your father for several years, but I really didn't know him until after we were married!"

The Boy and the Professor.

"I was mimicking Professor Bore yesterday, and he caught me."

"What did he say?"

"Told me to stop making a fool of myself."

Hope.

"Hope," said Uncle Eben, "is a blessin' when you's willin' to back it wif a little hard work, 'stid o' lettin' it play itself out on a policy ticket."—Washington Star.

THE RIVER SEINE.

It Is the Most Picturesque of the Highways of Paris.

We have heard almost too much of the streets of Paris and not enough of that street most distinctive of all—the river Seine. Flowing through the city for six miles, it is a highway, with its bateaux mouches, its bridges and its quays. Of a dark night the Seine may seem to lugubrious fancy the symbol of death in the city's life abounding—murky death and inky crime, oozy and silent wickedness. Yet normally, even perhaps to suicides, the Seine is but the mirror of a city's mood. There are lights everywhere—lights lengthened in the water. The Louvre and the Conciergerie shown in the stream are things fairer than their originals. It is better to look upon the eddying reflections of the bridges here than to stand in the Place de la Concorde, bright with its orange lamps in honor of an auto show. The lights on the Seine and its images are more alluring, more innately of fairyland and Paris, than the gilded boulevards.

Nor is it only in the moonlight that the Seine has charms. The holiday sculler finds it a paradise for miles above the city, and there are ever such fishermen as Maupassant's Renard. Line fishing is more than a mild sport at Paris. Even to watch its devotees seems to amuse your true Parisian. A legend tells us that in the commune days, when the Hotel de Ville was fired on and a dark page written in the city's history, the Seine fishermen pursued their pastime, imperturbable. And the tale seems likely enough as the saunterer watches the fisher folk, whose leisure may be envied more than their occupation and who are found not on the city quays alone, but in the banlieu, where the Seine's green bank is dabbed with villages in brown and red and gray and where one stops to watch the peasants bathe their horses in the stream itself, rubbing them down soon afterward by the river's brink. Within the city there are the men who clip poodles on the quays and higher book and picture stalls with their merchants and shifting groups of bargain hunters—the Odeon arcade for new books, the riverside for old.—Scribner's Magazine.

ASTRONOMY.

Its Exactness Illustrated by the Discovery of Neptune.

There is perhaps no more striking illustration of the power of scientific method than that relating to the discovery of Neptune in 1846. The planet Uranus, until then the outermost known member of our solar system, refused to follow the path computed for it by mathematical astronomers. With the progress of time the discrepancies between its predicted and observed positions grew constantly larger until in the early eighteen-forties the discordance amounted to fully seventy-five seconds of arc. This is a small angle, not more than one-twenty-fifth the angular diameter of our moon, yet a very large angle to refined astronomy, for a discrepancy of two seconds would have been detected with ease. The opinion gradually developed that Uranus was drawn from its natural course by the attractions of an undiscovered planet still farther from the sun than itself. Adams in 1843 and Le Verrier in 1845 independently and each without knowledge of the other's plans attacked the then extremely difficult problem of determining the approximate orbit, mass and position of an undiscovered body whose attractions should produce the perturbations observed. Regrettable and avoidable delays occurred in searching for the planet after Adams' results were communicated to the astronomer royal in October, 1845. Le Verrier's results were communicated to the Berlin observatory in September, 1846, with the request that a search be made. The disturbing planet, later named Neptune, was found on the first evening that it was looked for less than one degree of arc from the position assigned by Le Verrier. If an energetic search had been made in England the year before the planet would have been discovered within two degrees of the position assigned by Adams.—Professor W. W. Campbell in Popular Science Monthly.

dirty work. If he don't get out of town tonight we'll fix him; we'll take him down to the river on the switch engine and dump him overboard.' Witness then started to Davidson's home where he boarded. As he went down the railroad towards home he observed a man lurking near a box car. This man appeared to be attired in a rain coat, black felt hat, and his face was partly covered by a black cloth. The man wore a long beard. A few yards further up the track he met two more men, but proceeded on his way. One of these men was about 6 feet tall, the other rather small.

Upon reaching the gate at his boarding-house, witness heard two shots in rapid succession, and shortly afterward many shots were fired. Witness then returned to the point where Sellars was shot, where he found a number of people, and he joined a party with Kelley, Davidson and others to search for the party who did the shooting. He left the party in a few moments, returned to Sellars, remained there for a while, and then went home. At a late hour he saw a man enter the Davidson home, where he (the witness) lodged. The man had a gun. He resembled very much a man who stayed around Davidson's restaurant a great deal by the name of Shields.

Upon cross-examination, witness stated that he did not testify before the coroner's jury or at the habeas corpus proceedings, but was summoned as a witness before the grand jury.

Witness did not see Kelley from the time he relieved him (witness) at 9:30, until after Sellars was shot, which was after 11 o'clock.

Witness repeated the conversation between Davidson, Burkhart and himself regarding Sellars on the night of the killing, to which he nor Burkhart made no reply, but turned and walked away.

"Why did you not go to Sellars and warn him of the danger?"

"Because it was none of my business," replied the witness.

"Why did you not go before the coroner's jury and tell what you knew?"

"Because it was none of my business; I was not summoned and was afraid to tell what I knew."

Cleve Roland was working for Davidson in August, 1906. On the night Sellars was shot Davidson sent witness to his (Davidson's) home for a gun and two shells. He brought the gun and shells and placed them in the restaurant. This was about three hours before Sellars was shot.

On cross-examination, witness stated that Davidson told him someone was stealing feed from his (Davidson's) wood camp, and that he wanted to catch them. The gun remained where witness had placed it until after the shooting, as far as he knew.

S. B. Davis, Jr., lived in High Springs in 1906, the night Sellars was killed; went with Cleve Roland to Davidson's house on that night for the gun and shells; witness examined shells and they were marked "buck shot." Witness left Roland near the restaurant, with the gun and shells.

Peter Burkhart lived in High Springs in August, 1906. Was night yardmaster for the Atlantic Coast Line. Knew both defendants, also Sellars. Saw Davidson about 7:30 o'clock on night of August 6, also saw Sellars in Davidson's restaurant. Davidson, referring to Sellars, said: "You see that fellow? He is a detective from Tampa, and he came here to break up this whiskey stealing, and if he don't leave here we'll fix him." Sellars came out of the restaurant and went away towards the freight house. In the meantime Kelley came up, remarking, "Where is the ————," to which Davidson replied that he had gone to the freight house. Kelley then said, "Where is your gun?" and Davidson told him (Kelley) that it was in the restaurant.

Witness then went into the telegraph office, where he remained until the shot which killed Sellars was fired. Witness stated that prior to the shooting he also saw two men pass the depot, whom he recognized as a man by the name of McIlvaine and a man by the name of Seals. Seals wore a rain coat and a false beard, but McIlvaine was dressed ordinarily. After the shooting he saw the two men again, but Seals had discarded his rain coat and false beard, and both were in their shirt sleeves.

Witness stated that he had talked with Davidson about the case in April, 1907, in High Springs. At that time he told Davidson that Officer Roberts was working up a case, and if he (Davidson) did not look out they would "get him," to which he replied that if Kelley would keep his ——— mouth shut everything would come out all right. Witness stated that Davidson offered to pay his way to Savannah to talk with Kelley.

On cross-examination witness stated he had never talked with any special agents of the Atlantic Coast Line regarding testimony he was to give in this case. He was a witness before the coroner's jury and the grand jury.

The defense was unsuccessful in inducing the witness to state that he had lost his position with the railroad at one time because he refused to testify against Davidson, but witness admitted that he did tell W. M. Davidson, after he had left High Springs and the employ of the A. C. L., and was working for the Seaboard in Jacksonville, that he met Special Agent Bryan; that Bryan told him (witness) he was glad he left High Springs, as he might give some valuable information in the case, to which witness replied to Bryan that he did not know anything about it.

BABY'S PITIFUL CASE OF ECZEMA

Summer Rash Became a Dreadful Itching Humor—Big Blisters Formed and Skin Grew as Hard and Rough as Bark—Scratched and Tore Flesh till Blood Ran.

ALMOST MAGIC CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our son, two years old, was very much afflicted with a breaking out or what looked to be a summer rash. I applied the usual remedies, such as washing with soda water and powdering with boric acid. Finally, after he suffered with the trouble several weeks I took him to the doctor. He said it was merely a rash that was quite prevalent, and that I was giving the right treatment and that I should just continue it and the baby would soon be all right. But instead of getting better it was getting worse. The rash ran together and made large blisters. The little fellow didn't want to do anything but scratch and we had to wrap his hands up to keep him from it as he would tear the flesh open till the blood would run. The itching was intense, causing loss of appetite and flesh. When it seemed to hurt him most the skin on his back became hard and rough like the bark of a tree so that rubbing or brushing would not break it. He was so feverish that I thought it a bad case of eczema. He could not wear any clothes but a little nightgown with the sleeves just fastened at the top of the shoulder. He suffered intensely for about three months. But I found a remedy in Cuticura Soap for bathing and Cuticura Ointment with which I anointed the sore places. This kept the rash from spreading and in less than a week the result was almost magical. That was more than two years ago and there has not been the slightest symptom of it since he was cured. I am never very long without Cuticura Soap as my family knows the value of it and don't like a substitute. J. W. Lauck, Yukon, Okla., Aug. 28 and Sept. 17, '08."

Millions of women throughout the world use Cuticura Soap and Ointment for eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, inflammations, chaffings, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, sanative, antiseptic cleansing, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

An Enjoyable Afternoon Ride.

ALACHUA, June 22.—A party of happy young folks spent an enjoyable afternoon ride last Friday evening, June 18th. The party was composed of Misses Florence, Lula, and Addie Bethea, Mrs. Mamie Floyd and Bulah Gay, while the young men were Messrs. St. Piere, Moyer, Stewart, Bethea and Arthur Lane. Mrs. Mamie Floyd acted as chaperon.

The evening was a pleasant one and exceedingly enjoyed by every member of the party. The young ladies were dressed in beautiful party dresses, as they were going to an ice cream supper near Bland, but, changing their course, went to Fidelity church, near Cadillac. Service was just over with when they arrived, which they regretted very much.

The happy crowd returned home near the hour of midnight.

Each one declares it was the most pleasant afternoon they ever had the pleasure of enjoying, and extend heartiest congratulations to the chaperon, who looked very handsome in the light of the pale moon.

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all druggists.

A Bad Hand.

H. Chesser, one of the men employed at the veneering plant of Kelley & Sons at Prairie Creek, was in the city yesterday, having come for the purpose of having his hand dressed and otherwise cared for. While feeding one of the machines there a board was thrown against his fore-knuckle, but no attention was paid to the wound until yesterday, when the entire had had swollen to about three times its size, when he at once consulted medical aid.

If you are not satisfied after using according to directions two-thirds of a bottle of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, you can have your money back. The tablets cleanse and invigorate the stomach, improve the digestion, regulate the bowels. Give them a trial and get well. Sold by all druggists.

REMAINS FROM OCALA.

Infant of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Perry Died Tuesday.

Telephone information received from Ocala last night was to the effect that Ralph, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Perry, died in that city yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral will be held from the residence of their brother-in-law, G. W. Brabham in this city, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The remains will arrive over the Coast Line this morning at 7:45 and at once be taken to the home, where they will remain until time for the funeral, which will be conducted by Dr. S. B. Rogers. All friends of the family are invited to be present.

Negroes Doubleteam.

Information was received here on Tuesday of a general mix-up between a number of the negro population near Bland on last Saturday evening. From what the letter states it seems that one William Washington had put up some cash for another negro, and he was to have worked it out with him, but instead had jumped his job. When approached and reprimanded for his conduct, a number of outsiders stepped in and with the assistance of this negro nearly beat Washington to death. The letter also states that while no guns were used they were held over Washington until they got through with the whipping.

Another Negro Injured.

Another mill hand employed at the sawmill of T. J. Swearingen was brought here yesterday, his head having been crushed in by a scantling. It was just an accident, and no blame can be attached to anyone about the mill. He was given medical attention and returned to the mill until he has sufficiently recovered to resume his occupation.

CAN'T LOSE HAIR

Twenty Years from Today a Baldheaded Man Will Be an Unusual Sight.

One of the most prominent druggists of America made a statement a few weeks ago which has caused a great deal of discussion among scientists in the medical press.

He said: "If the new hair grower, Parisian Sage, increases its sales as it has during the past year, it will be used by nearly every man, woman and child in America within eight years.

"And when Parisian Sage is used almost universally, dandruff will disappear and with its departure baldness, itching scalp, splitting hair and all scalp diseases will follow, and twenty years from now a baldhead will be a rarity."

There is only one way to cure dandruff and that is to kill the germs. There is only one hair preparation that will kill the germs, and that is Parisian Sage.

This unusual hair restorer with its record of thousands of cures will grow hair on any head where there is any life left; it is guaranteed by W. M. Johnson to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching of the scalp in two weeks, or money back.

It is the most pleasant and invigorating tonic, is not sticky or greasy and is used extensively by ladies of refinement, who desire to have and to keep their hair soft, lustrous and luxuriant.

Only 50 cents for a large bottle at W. M. Johnson's and leading druggists everywhere, and remember when you buy a bottle of Parisian Sage you get more for 50 cents than the makers of ordinary tonics give you.

CATARRH MICROBES

A Dead Microbe Is the Best Microbe. Hyomei Kills Them All.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a killer of catarrh germs, because when you breathe it in, its antiseptic and germicide properties reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane from the mouth and nose deep into the lungs.

Hyomei brings the Australian forests of pine and eucalyptus to your home. It is made of the active principles extracted from these trees.

No one who lives in or near these forests suffers from catarrh. No one who breathes in Hyomei, the real forest air of Australia, will have catarrh for long after the treatment starts.

If you want to cure catarrh, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever, or relieve consumption, try Hyomei, the common-sense cure, the cure that reaches the spot.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents. Guaranteed to cure, or money back. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. Sold and guaranteed in Gainesville by J. W. McCollum & Co.

ONE MAN'S WORK IN FLORIDA.

The State of Florida has an area of 54,200 square miles. It has over 1,200 miles of seacoast. In 1880 its population was 269,493, an average of five persons to the square mile. There were but 408 miles of railroad in the State. There were no factories, but a few small sawmills, a few banks with but little capital, and but little business anywhere. The salubrious climate of the State was but little known except locally, and tourist travel was of no importance. Orange growing as an investment had just started in a small way in various parts of the State. Florida had only been known as a land of alligators and insects, and as a desirable place specially for consumptives. Its possibilities as a playground for the nation or as an important source of supply for vegetables and fruit of all kinds, lumber, cotton, naval stores, etc., and a profitable location for factories of any kind were unthought of. The East Coast of Florida, over 500 miles in extent, was utterly unknown to the world. There were a few towns along the East Coast, of which Jacksonville, St. Augustine, New Smyrna, Titusville, Melbourne and Key West were the principal ones. The population of the counties now known as the East Coast counties—Duval, St. Johns, Volusia, Brevard, St. Lucie, Dade and Monroe—was 39,935. The gross valuation in 1884 of these counties for taxes was $12,166,137. The gross valuation for taxes for the whole State of Florida in 1884 was $60,042,655.

The time for mail from New York or the West varied from five to seven days to Jacksonville, and many changes of cars had to be made before the weary traveler could land safely in Jacksonville by rail from the North or West. Such things as through Pullman or sleeping-cars were unknown. Travel was largely by steamers from Charleston or Savannah by sea or by the St. Johns river to interior points.

The gauge of all the principal railroads south of Quantico on the east and the Ohio river on the west were wide gauge or 5 feet 2 inches, while that of the Northern and Western lines are 4 feet 8½ inches, making it necessary for the Southern roads to maintain costly and cumbersome car hoists at various points and extra sets of wheels or trucks in order to secure a through movement of cars without breaking bulk. Rates were high, the time consumed by freight movement was very long, and in consequence there was but small interchange of business between the South and the North by railroad. These are some of the principal difficulties that had to be overcome in the upbuilding of Florida.

In 1884 a great man came to Florida in search of health and pleasure, a man who had made a large fortune, and who believed that it was given him in trust to be used "in the wisest way for the benefit of his fellowman and for the greatest good to the greatest number."

He was attracted by the quaint old city of St. Augustine. He bought a marsh lying within the city gates, and, filling it up, built the Ponce de Leon Hotel, one of the most perfect and beautiful buildings in the world. This he opened to the public in January, 1887.

In 1886 he bought a little narrow-gauge railroad from South Jacksonville to St. Augustine, connecting with the railroads running into Jacksonville by ferry. This mode being unsatisfactory, in 1886 he used his great influence and helped the great movement of September, 1886, when all the roads in the South changed their gauges to conform to that of the North. He built a great steel bridge across the St. Johns river at Jacksonville, and the first through Pullman trains from Jersey City to the far South came to St. Augustine to carry guests to the Pence de Leon Hotel in 1887. This improvement soon gave the State of Florida a 36-hour mail train from New York. He also built in St. Augustine the Alcazar Hotel and the beautiful casino and baths, all of concrete, magnificently finished and furnished. He built the City Hall, the hospital, the exquisite Memorial Presbyterian church and manse in memory of his only daughter, and the beautiful Grace Methodist church and parsonage, the colored school, and, when fire destroyed the old Roman Catholic Cathedral, he gave money with which to rebuild it. He built two miles of asphalt streets, comfortable homes for his employes, established waterworks, sewers and electric lights for his properties. He built here his car shops, and gave steady employment to hundreds of men.

In November, 1888, he bought the "Astor" road to Tocoi from St. Augustine and to Palatka, again bridging the St. Johns river at that point. In 1890 he bought the S. V. White railroad from San Mateo to Daytona, changed the gauge and connected it with his road at East Palatka, thus making a through line to Daytona and the Halifax river. He put steamers on that river to New Smyrna to bring out the orange crop of that locality. In 1890 he bought the Ormond Hotel at Ormond, and later enlarged it to accommodate the people attending the great automobile races from all over the world, and which made the Ormond-Daytona ocean beach course famous.

With the railroads that he bought and as their principal assets he got 168,000 acres of land, which he sold to settlers at low prices and on easy terms. He established a model farm at Hastings, and the results of that example gave Hastings its start. This year, 1909, the products of Hastings' farms will realize nearly a million dollars to their owners from Irish potatoes chiefly.

In 1892 he obtained a charter from the State authorizing an extension of his line of railway along the Indian river to Miami and Key West, and in the summer of 1892 the work of construction began. In February, 1893, he opened his line to Rockledge, and shortly afterwards to Cocoa where a wharf was built to connect with steamers on the Indian river.

In March, 1894, he bought the grounds at Palm Beach, on Lake Worth, and began the construction of the Royal Poinciana Hotel. This work was the most daring project ever undertaken in Florida up to that time. Lumber and all supplies, including food and labor, were conveyed by rail to Cocoa, Eau Gallie or Jensen as the railroad was finished to these points, then transferred to steamers and carried to Jupiter, then reloaded on narrow-gauge cars and transported to Lake Worth at Juno, and thence rafted or barged down the lake 10 miles to Palm Beach. The Royal Poinciana, with 500 guest rooms, was opened to the public in January, 1894. The Breakers, another great hotel on the ocean beach, was opened in 1896 at Palm Beach.

The townsite of West Palm Beach was purchased, laid out and opened for settlement in 1893, having city waterworks, paved streets and a large public school building.

The railroad was opened to Palm Beach, in Dade county, on March 22, 1894.

In 1894 he became interested in the East Coast Canal & Transportation Co., and aided that company to complete its canals to Miami from the Indian river. He invested nearly half a million dollars in this enterprise, afterwards taking lands for his stock. The canal provided water competition to his line of railway.

In 1895 he extended the Florida East Coast railway to Miami, in Dade county, 367 miles south of Jacksonville, and laid out the city of Miami, giving it paved streets, city waterworks, electric lights and a fine public school building. Miami was incorporated in 1896. In 1890 there were but 861 people in the entire county of Dade.

At Miami he built great wharves and established a steamship line to Nassau, Key West and Havana. He built the Royal Palm Hotel at Miami. In 1896 he built the Victoria Hotel at Nassau, and there constructed the Colonial Hotel, thus establishing a large tourist trade to the Bahamas via the Florida East Coast railway.

In 1904 he built the railroad to Pablo Beach, extended it to Mayport, where he constructed great coal and lumber wharves. He built the Continental Hotel at Atlantic Beach near Mayport, which gave an ocean beach resort to Jacksonville and the State generally.

In 1905 he extended his railway 28 miles to Homestead, and in 1907 began the greatest and most important railroad construction ever before undertaken by one man, in the extension of his railroad to Key West, by bridging by concrete viaducts, steel bridges and heavy fills of rock the openings between the Florida keys.

In January, 1908, this road was opened for travel to Knights Key, 477 miles south of Jacksonville, where connection is made by steamship for Havana and Key West. The construction of the 46 miles between Knights Key and Key West is progressing rapidly and most satisfactorily. A large force of men and all the various kinds of machinery that can be utilized in that class of construction are steadily working to finish the track to Key West by January 2, 1910, the eightieth birthday of Henry M. Flagler, the man who has done these things. The efficiency of the organization of Mr. Flagler's Florida East Coast railway is of the highest class, his officials are practical, liberal and far-sighted and devoted to the successful accomplishment of his views in the development of his great project.

To show some of the results of this man's persistence in developing the East Coast of Florida, the following figures, compiled from reliable sources, are appended:

The population of the State has increased to over 850,000. There were in 1880 but few postoffices on the East Coast. In 1908 there were 141 on the line of the Florida East Coast railway, many of them being centers of various side postoffice routes. In 1880 there were 10,681 school children in Duval, St. Johns, Volusia, Brevard, Dade and Monroe counties, while in 1908 there were 37,643.

The gross valuation of the seven East Coast counties in 1884 was $12,166,137; in 1908, $37,693,724, while total valuation of the entire State has increased from $60,042,655 in 1884 to $159,390,230 in 1908. The seven East Coast counties bear 42 per cent of this entire valuation made up of 46 counties of the State.

Shipments of all kinds of fruit and vegetables are made from the East Coast in trainloads on fast passenger schedules to all parts of the United States. Hotels accommodating nearly 40,000 tourists have been provided, towns and cities have grown up like magic, churches and schools always being the first to be established in the pioneer settlements.

ONE MAN'S WORK IN FLORIDA.

grown from 498 miles in 1880 to 3,878 in 1907, of which Mr. Flagler owns 632 miles or a little over one-sixth.

Mr. Flagler's example has had a tremendous influence for development all over the State, and, indeed, in much of the South. The Pullman car lines from the West and North that were originally established for the benefit of his hotel guests have been made permanent all-year-around lines, thus giving a strong impetus to travel to "way places" that could not alone have secured such business facilities.

Large cities have grown up in the State, and numerous factories of all kinds are established to meet the business requirements.

Key West, which is the southern terminal of the Florida East Coast railway, is 523 miles south of Jacksonville. It is the Southern port of the United States, soon to be its most Southern railroad port, and deserves more than a passing word. It has a fine harbor, with a 28-foot channel to it. It is but 90 miles from Havana, 604 from Progresso, the principal port of Yucatan, 1,060 miles from Vera Cruz and 1,000 miles from Port Mexico, both Mexican seaports; 675 miles from Berlize, the port of British Honduras; 800 miles from Puerto Barrios, the port of Guatemala; 760 miles from Puerto Cortez, in Honduras; 725 miles from Trujillo, also a Honduran port; 1,125 miles from Greytown, the port of Nicaragua; 1,175 miles from Point Limon, in Costa Rica; 1,260 miles from Colon, the eastern entrance to the Panama Canal; 1,235 miles from Cartagena, in Columbia, and 1,775 miles from La Guaira, the port for Caracas, in Venezuela. The exports from the United States to these countries, excluding Mexico, in 1906 were $122,038,925; the imports from them in 1906 to the United States were $60,388,350—a total of $188,427,275. The commerce with other countries, however, with the exception of Cuba and Panama, is far greater than with the United States. The population of these countries is 10,633,539, excluding Mexico.

There is one American line of ships to Puerto Barrios, in Guatemala; three American lines and two foreign lines to Puerto Cortez, in Honduras; one American, one British, one Dutch, one French, one German, one Italian, one Spanish line to La Guaira and Puerto Cabello, in Venezuela; five British, one German, one French, one Spanish, one Dutch and one Italian line to Barranquilla, in Columbia; one American, two German, two British, one Spanish, one French line to Point Limon, in Costa Rica, and two American lines, two German lines to Nicaragua. To Colon, Panama, there are three British, one French, one German, one Spanish, one American line. These facts, taken from the Statesman's Year Book of 1907, indicate a growing business with the United States from Central America especially, and when great coal yards and abundant water supply are furnished at Key West, as they will be, some of the steamer lines will be attracted there; hence when the manufacturers of the South realize how near they are to these great markets, it is natural that they will reach out for some of this great business and the fondest hopes of the projectors of this great railway be fully realized.

The Government has an important naval station at Key West, and the artillery post established there is the largest of any of the South Atlantic ports. A large garrison is maintained there all the year round. The climate of Key West is equable, the mean annual temperature being 77 degrees. The annual rainfall is 33.1 inches, evenly distributed over the year. Key West has an active board of trade, several banks, two daily papers. It is headquarters for the great sponge fleet. Its annual output of cigars is enormous, and this business is increasing. It has a population approximating 22,000. It has fine public and private schools and churches of all denominations. Its advantages as a distributing center after the Florida East Coast railway reaches it will undoubtedly be availed of, and Key West will become a great city.

Hitherto Mr. Flagler's works have been largely that of developing the wilderness as his railway was extended from point to point. The new extension will reach an important seaport with an established business; hence he will have the co-operation and active support of a city whose ambition will be aroused by his example and far-reaching influence. So it is easy to predict a great future for this "Island City" when aided by Mr. Henry M. Flagler. Keep your eye on Key West.

In reading this sketch of the works of Mr. Flagler since 1884 the reader must be impressed with his persistence, energy and daring, and as well with the consistence with which he pursued the line of duty which he marked out for himself.

It is to be regretted, however, that the great benefits to the State of his adoption following his developments have not yet been fully realized by the people to whom he has given so much of his life and fortune.—J. E. Ingraham, in The Manufacturers' Record.

Gainesville People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due in most cases to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer goes gradually into the grasp of diabetes, dropsy, Bright's Disease, gravel or some other serious form of kidney compaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they cure where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Mrs. A. H. Leonard, 304 E. Liberty street, Gainesville, Fla., says: "I feel that from personal experience and that of several of my friends who have used Doan's Kidney Pills, I can endorse them very highly. Any person suffering from backache, headaches, chills, nervousness or any of the other symptoms arising from disordered kidneys, will make no mistake in giving Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. They always act quickly, cause no inconvenience and live up to the claim made for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Weed That Steals Oysters.

A seaweed has invaded the oyster beds of France and carried off 400,000 oysters. It has carried them off bodily, as a thief would do. The minute seeds of this weed float up the English channel in the current of the gulf stream; they settle on oysters in the Breton beds of Morbihan, Quiberon and Belle Isle, and they grow to the size of a duck's egg. They are full of water, but at maturity the water evaporates, and air takes its place. The egg shaped seaweed is then a balloon, and, like a balloon, it lifts its oyster from the bottom and bears it out to sea.

Poor Milk

Is often thought to be responsible for an infant's loss in weight or general poor health. The cause usually is that the child has worms. They get the nourishment of the food and the baby starves, actually starves. White's Cream Vermifuge expels the worms and nourishes the child, sure and safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

The Best Part of the Speech.

Young James had never heard his papa speak in public, and it was thought time to take him to hear his father deliver a lecture. During the evening a stray dog which ventured upon the platform was disposed of as gracefully as possible. On the way home James was asked how he liked his father's lecture and gave the answer, "It was all right, papa, but I liked the part where you put the dog out the best."—Delineator.

A LEPROSY TRAGEDY.

The Sacrifice of Kaomouna, the Hawaiian Beauty.

HER LIFE FOR HER MOTHER.

A Story Which Sheds a Bright Light Upon the Filial Devotion of Kanaka Women—The Reason a Baby's Advances Were Not Returned.

The usual Honolulu crowd was down at the dock when the steamship from San Francisco pulled alongside the pier on a brilliant, balmy afternoon in January some years ago. American women in summer afternoon costumes, a few English and a few German women of society, arrayed also for steamer day, leaned back languorously in their carriages and phaetons, under the shade of parasols, listening to the lazy complimentary talk of the duck clad, lei enwreathed young business men who combined duty with pleasure in thus waiting for the great steamer to slip laboriously into her measured berth beside the pier.

All of the Kanaka women had bare feet. They stood about in little groups as silent as the men of their race. A few of the Kanaka women carried tiny brown babies—silent also. The young women were of vaying degrees of beauty, their figures showing a uniform excellence of proportion.

One of these Kanaka women at the dock on this brilliant January afternoon was particularly beautiful. She was clad like the rest of the women of her race. She was fully five feet ten inches in height, and the white silk cord with which, unlike the other Kanaka women, she drew her white dress about her waist emphasized the splendid heroic proportions of her figure. Kaomouna seemed quite unconscious of her beauty. The young shipping clerks, hurrying to and fro on the dock with their pencils behind their ears, stopped suddenly when they caught sight of her. The women in the carriages, who had not been long down from the States or from Europe, saw Kaomouna and asked the women of longer Honolulu residence, "Who is that glorious creature?" Kaomouna, with a very sad face, spoke only an occasional word to one of the Kanaka women.

The steamship was made fast to the pier, and the passengers began to troop over the gangplank. There was one man with his pretty young wife and three-year-old little girl. The little girl was the first to catch sight of Kaomouna as she reached the bottom of the gangway. She quickly freed her hand from her father's grasp and ran toward Kaomouna with baby words. Kaomouna smiled at the little girl, but did not offer to take her up. Instead she folded her arms, looking down at the little pink faced child pleasantly. When the mother had taken the little girl she raised her eyes to look at Kaomouna.

"Did you ever in your whole life see such a perfectly beautiful woman?" asked the young wife of her husband in a whisper when he came up. "And Tita seemed to take to her immediately. If we could only have her for a nurse for Tita!"

Kaomouna heard her.

"Kaomouna would love to be that," she replied in a soft Kanaka accented speech, smiling. Then a look of pain came into her face. "But it may not be—it may not be!" And, with her hands at her eyes, Kaomouna turned suddenly and disappeared among the departing men and women of her race.

Three months later the parents of the little girl were at the dock together to witness for the first time the saddest of sights—the departure of the lepers for the island of Molokai. The Kilauea Hou, the leper steamer, was out in the stream, and the lepers were being carried out to her in barges. A litter was borne through the roped inclosure for the lepers. On it lay a very old Kanaka woman in the final stages of the disease. At the side of the litter walked Kaomouna. Her face was very sad. The parents of the little girl wondered. They spoke to an official of the Hawaiian board of health, who was busy in the task of embarking the lepers.

"Surely," they said, "she does not accompany the lepers!"

"Who—Kaomouna?" replied the health official. "Oh, yes, she does. But it is her own choice. Kaomouna, you know, has been secreting her old mother for a number of years. We always knew there was something mysterious about Kaomouna—that is, we have known it for the last five years. She had made queer visits to a palm hut far over in the Nuuanu valley. Last week we followed her. We felt there was leprosy in it. We found her mother in the hut. Kaomouna had had her in hiding, trying to save her from Molokai, ever since the disease became evident. Kaomouna is not infected in the least. She has been careful. But she elects to follow her mother to Molokai. Extraordinary? Why, not at all! You do not understand the filial devotion of Kanaka women—men, too, for that matter. Such cases are common enough."

The parents of the little girl looked at each other. There were tears in the mother's eyes.

"That is why she folded her arms and would not touch Tita!" she said. "In this world of God, civilized or uncivilized, could there be anything more noble?"

All was ready, and the Kilauea Hou, with Kaomouna and her mother on board, slowly started down the harbor, the Kanakas on the dock setting up the weird, plaintive death wail.—Washington Star.

A GREWSOME BEQUEST.

Extraordinary Legacy by the Father of Lord Audley.

Probably the most grewsome bequest ever named in a will was that made by Philip Thicknesse, a dissipated Englishman, who died in 1792. Some years before his death he had quarreled bitterly with his son, Lord Audley, and to spite him had placed on the outside of the family mansion a board bearing this inscription in large black letters:

"Boots and shoes mended, carpets beat, etc., etc., by P. Thicknesse, father of Lord Audley."

Finding he was about to die, he sent for his lawyer and drew up a will containing the following extraordinary clause: "I leave my right hand, to be cut off after my death, to my son, Lord Audley. I desire it may be sent to him in hopes that such a sight may remind him of his duty to God after having so long abandoned the duty he owed to a father who once so affectionately loved him."

The dead man's wishes were scrupulously carried out, and his severed hand, inclosed in a hermetically sealed leaden casket, was forwarded to his son. There is no record as to how Lord Audley received his unwelcome legacy or how he disposed of it.—New York Press.

Beggars of Bombay.

The nuisance caused by beggars in Bombay has assumed unbearable proportions. The orientals practice charity as a religious obligation and relieve poverty where they find it. Recitals from Kebit and Marabal never fail to touch the innermost chords of the natives with their innate reverence for spiritualism, and the faker backs up his appeal for alms with profuse quotations from the poets. Then there are lay beggars and religious beggars, the ash besmeared ascetics who practice mendicancy as a hereditary profession. Last and not least are the unfortunate sufferers whom the loss of limbs or eyes or some fell disease disables for work and drives them to beggary as the last resource. These latter have a genuine claim on our charity, but as there are so few asylums in India for the halt, the maim and the blind the streets and byways of towns are flooded with beggars, pitiful types of suffering humanity.—Rash Gaftar.

The Lace Curtain.

Just why there must be lace curtains even where there is no piano or rubber plant or gilt chair has never been explained to the entire satisfaction of man. He only knows that there must and lets it go at that. It often seems to him that if he could have his way, which is out of the question, of course, there wouldn't be lace curtains, at least above the cellar floor. They are in the way when windows are to be lowered or raised; they are apt to blow into the gas and burn down the house, and alarm is constantly sounded for fear the man will sell or tear them. They do not serve to keep out the light when there is too much of it, and the dog can't toast himself in the sun without getting tangled in them.

Still, there are lace curtains everywhere, and that is all there is to it.—Providence Tribune.

Colds that hang on weaken the constitution and develop into consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar cures persistent coughs that refuse to yield to other treatment. Do not experiment with untried remedies as delay may result in your cold settling on your lungs. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Who Taught Her Caution?

Isabel, aged four, was talking to an imaginary friend over the telephone, which her mother heard her say: "Wait a minute, Nickay. My brother is right here listening to all you say, and my mother is in the room too. Don't tell me about it now."—Delineator.

Careless.

Visitor—So that's Miss Overton. Don't you think she carries her age remarkably well? Artist—No, I don't. She has dropped several years of it to my personal knowledge.—Illustrated Bits.

TELEPHONE TALKS

The Long Distance System

One of the most valuable features of our service, to our subscribers and to the public generally, is our connection with the extensive long distance lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the other associated Bell Telephone companies.

We own thousands of miles of long distance lines in the seven States in which we operate and in addition can connect any telephone in our system with lines extending to any other city in which a Bell Telephone system is operated.

These long distance lines are of the most modern and improved construction and are maintained at a high state of efficiency. The Bell systems, operating in various sections of the country, are uniform in their equipment and in their methods of operating.

Only by reason of this close traffic arrangement between the Bell Telephone companies is it possible to go to a Bell Telephone almost anywhere, ask for "Long Distance" and be put in communication with almost any point in the country.

This vast network of wires, radiating throughout the nation, is used daily in commerce and for social purposes by the banker, the farmer and citizens in all walks of life and our plant here is an important link in this great chain.

GAINESVILLE,

—THE—

University City.

Gainesville is conceded to be the most enterprising as well as the most beautiful city in the interior of Florida. It is located in the very center of the State, half way between the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, surrounded by lands of such fertility as to be capable of producing a great variety of crops; in the heart of the truck-growing, phosphate and naval stores belt. She has the best educational advantages in the State, good churches, with edifices which are superior to any town of its size in Florida, with large and consistent congregations; has a climate which cannot be excelled for health and pleasure. All these natural advantages, combined with a progressive and enterprising cosmopolitan citizenship, are sure to make a big city.

The farmers of Alachua county, of which Gainesville is the county seat, "live at home and board at the same place." The temperature is very uniform, scarcely ever reaching the nineties in summer or the twenties in winter. The population of Gainesville is about eight thousand, representing nearly every nationality on the face of the earth, and strangers always meet with a hearty welcome.

A Remarkable Memory.

Mr. W. P. Shettleworth of Evinston sent us a few days ago the roster of the Marion Dragoons, one of the companies made up in this county, and which enlisted early in the Civil War. This company served throughout the struggle in this State, participating in most of the Florida battles. The company was mustered out one hundred strong. Mr. Shettleworth sends us the name of every member of the company, and says that he can describe the color of every horse in the company and the position each one occupied when in line, and the possible age of each horse.

Mr. Macaulay gives some remarkable instances of good memories of certain historical characters, but we do not believe that he instances any more remarkable than that possessed by Mr. Shettleworth.—Ocala Banner.
